THE NINETEEN HUNDRED FORTY

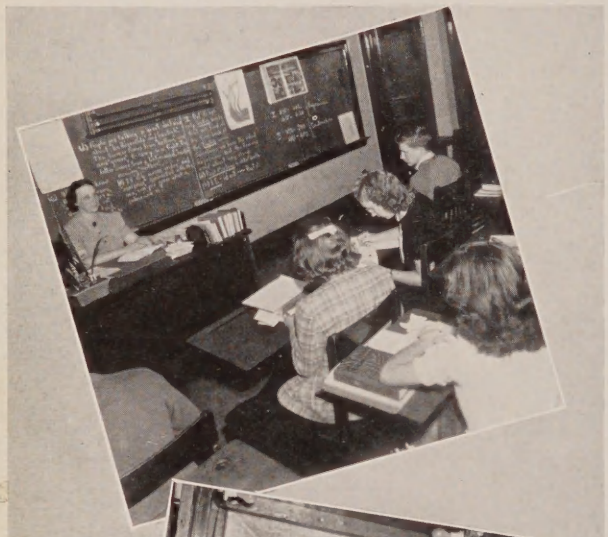
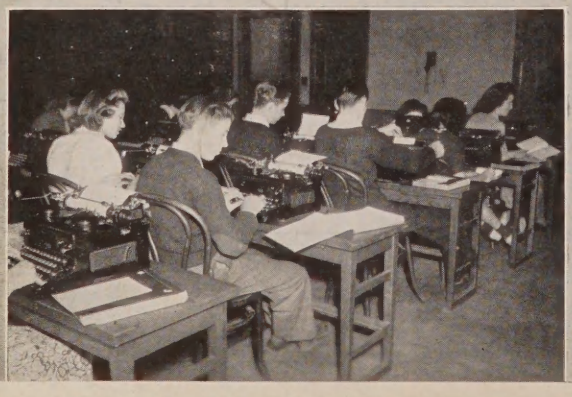
BY WAY OF INTRODUCTION . . .

A PREVIEW OF OUR LIFE AT INDIANA HIGH SCHOOL





NOT very many years ago, the fundamental aim of the high school was to prepare students for entrance to college. Today, while preparation for college is still one of the functions of the school, the emphasis has shifted. The program of the modern high school is to meet the individual needs of the pupil in preparing him to take his place as an intelligent, working member of society. Throughout the country only about fifteen percent of high school graduates enter college, although this figure is somewhat higher for Indiana. For this reason, the school must assume the task of helping each student, no matter what his ultimate goal, to build personal patterns of living so that he may live a reasonably happy, useful life.

The School District of Indiana, through the policy of the Board of Education and the efforts of the Administration and Teaching Staff, is continually adapting the service of the school to the needs of the individual pupil. This policy makes necessary a more comprehensive curriculum and different methods of teaching than formerly, and the faculty, through extention and summer courses, wide reading, and school visits, is keeping abreast of the times in educational method. For years Indiana has led the state in the percentage of its teachers who have college and graduate degrees as background for their work. The faculty has as objectives in their work seven principles: 1.) that each student receive training in establishing and maintaining a home, 2.) that each develop vocational efficiency, 3.) that each learn to engage in wholesome social relationships, 4.) that each assume responsibility to his government, 5.) that each be trained for personal fitness, 6.) that each build a fine pattern of ethical living, and 7.) that each enlarge his powers of esthetic appreciation. The pictures on these pages and those following will show many different ways in which these objectives are being realized in the lives of nearly fourteen hundred boys and girls. These pictures are only typical of hundreds of daily situations in which we can learn to grow, to gain, and to give.

We Dedicate . . .

At the beginning of this volume we wish to salute the faithful service and untiring efforts of two of the staunchest friends we have. Known to every student in Indiana High School, they are, perhaps unconsciously, a strong influence for good in the lives of all of us. As they go about their duties as day custodians, making the school a clean, comfortable environment, their kindly, sympathetic attitudes encourage numerous students. In our daily activities, no matter what requests or emergency demands we make of them, their friendliness and understanding are an inspiration to us. Because of these qualities and their high ideals of personal character, we, therefore, dedicate this volume of the school annual to Mr. Marshall Carnahan and Mr. John Mulholland.

First Semester
Student Council

Second Semester
Student Council

First Semester Student Council

The first semester Student Council consisted of home room presidents from thirty-five home rooms. Here all the problems of the school are brought, weeded out, and final decisions arrived at. Discussions of problems pertaining to home room programs, clubs, school policies, and corridors were developed. It is here that the president and vice-president of the entire school are nominated. One of our greatest problems, the idea of a school mascot, originated here, as well as the proposal for stunt programs. The sponsor was Laura Church.

Second Semester Student Council

The second semester Student Council continued the work of the first semester Student Council. Various problems, such as the selection of the school mascot, was finally decided. Cooperation among the teachers and students was stressed. Phases of different social functions in the school were made clear. Also a president and vice-president for the entire school were chosen. These thirty-five presidents, representing all the home rooms, were elected to this position because of their ability to lead. The sponsor was Laura Church.

Safety Patrol

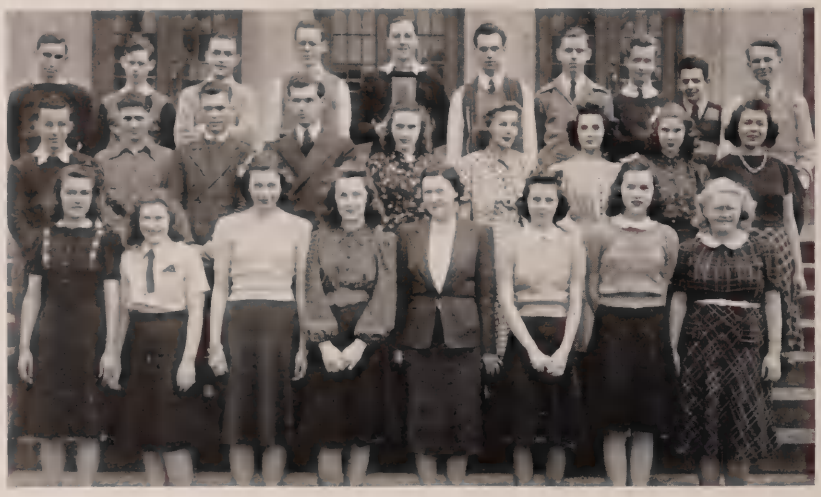
This year the Junior Red Cross maintained the social tradition of cooperation and helpfulness in Indiana High School. They distributed Christmas boxes to about forty families, conducted a First Aid Course, and helped in the Community Chest Drive. During the second semester they sponsored a Valentine's Day Party for the children of the Willard Home, participated in an assembly program, and carried on Easter activities. As a servic eorganization, the group is invaluable. The club, composed of forty-one members, was sponsored by Lisle Reed.

Safety Patrol

Directing traffic in the school was just one of the jobs a student patroller, who was frequently heard saying "Sorry. You can not go down these stairs. These stairs are for traffic coming up-stairs." To promote health, safety, and courteous behavior within the building was the aim of this club. Each student was given, as a reward an "I" at the close of the year. The club had regular meetings twice each month. This year the various members helped to direct traffic outside of the building also. The club was sponsored by Principal Jesse A. Lubold.

Student Publications



Twelfth Year Dramatic Club

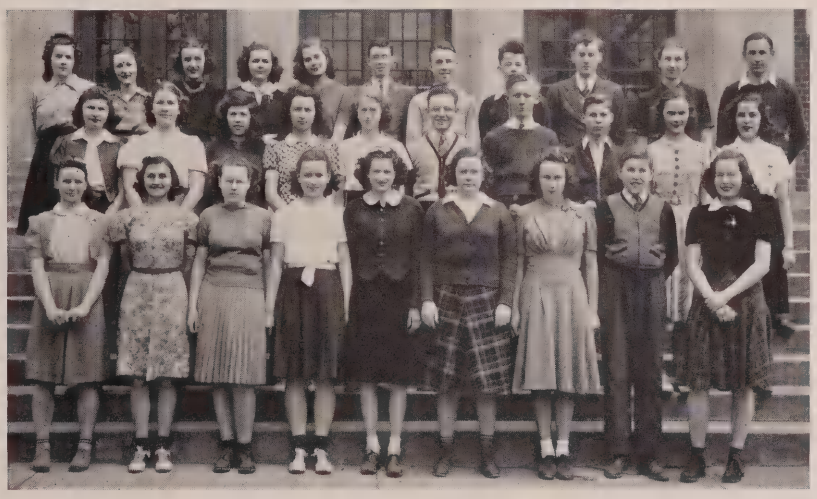
Student Publications

"The High Arrow" and "L'Indien" were the projects of the journalism class. To set up high scholastic standards, to develop mutual understanding, and also to present to the parents and friends a true picture of school life was the platform of this class. "The High Arrow" is published bi-weekly and "L'Indien" is an annual publication of the staff. The class this year had sixteen members, some just new this year and others who had served last year. The class meets at regularly scheduled periods under the guidance of Lambert Joseph.

Twelfth Year Dramatic Club

The two major productions of the year "Shavings" and "Just Till Morning" were presented by the Junior and Senior Dramatic Clubs. The purpose of this organization is to develop an interest in drama as a vehicle of education and entertainment, as a source for experience and pleasure; during their bi-monthly meetings several one act plays were given, and these plays were written by the students themselves. Thirty-five persons make up the membership. Sponsors were Mrs. Mary McGregor and Mr. Carroll Rupp.

Eleventh Year Dramatic Club



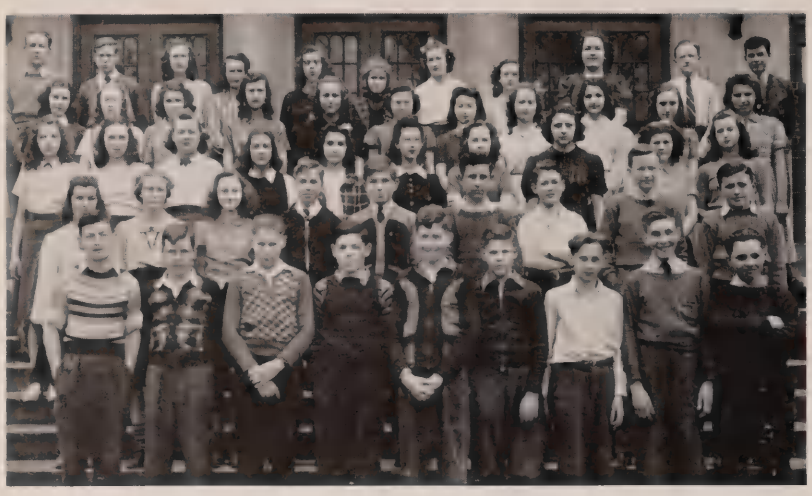
Tenth Year Dramatic Club

Eleventh Year Dramatic Club

This organization was of active assistance to the senior club in its major undertaking which this year was "Shavings". These forty-five members of the junior class are interested in all the various phases of dramatics. In fostering the study of dramatics they have learned the correct ways for staging a production and the art of make-up. Throughout the course of the year reviews and one-act plays were presented. All members of this club are preparing to take their places as members of the senior dramatic club. Sponsor was Laura Church.

Tenth Year Dramatic Club

This eager group of sophomores, presented the three-act play, "Spring Fever" for assembly. To acquaint the members of this club with the principles of dramatics, and to foster worthwhile plays and entertainment, they have given several one-act plays in their bi-monthly meetings. They have made a thorough study of the art of make-up and the modern theater—its actors and its leading plays of the season. It was also one of the aims of this club to have as many members as possible to participate in dramatics. The Sponsor was Charlotte Chapman.



Ninth Year Dramatic Club

Eighth Year Dramatic Club

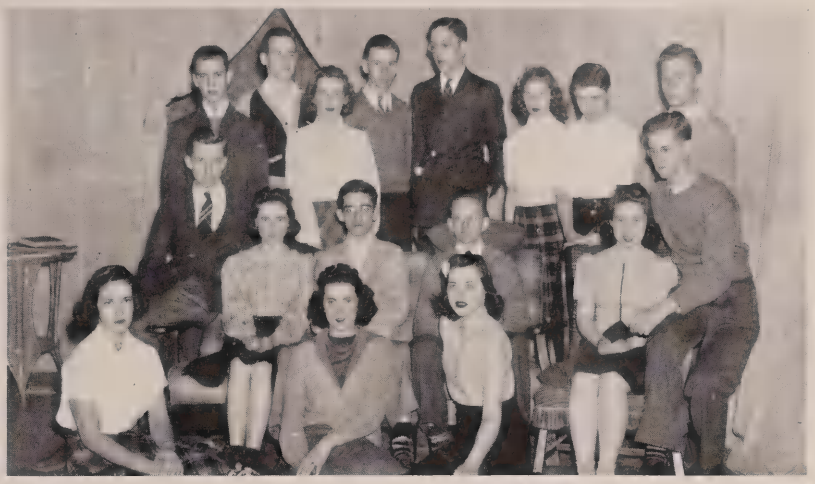
Ninth Year Dramatic Club

The ninth grade Dramatic Club had for its general theme the idea of developing further interest in dramatic production. With that general idea, short dialogues, skits, one-act plays, and puppet productions were given. During the second semester a detailed study of radio play production was studied. The club as a whole was very interested in dramatics as the club membership numbered fifty-five. This club met semi-monthly, every first and third Thursday, at which times they named new officers to lead them. The sponsor was Gertrude Handler.

Eighth Year Dramatic Club

The eighth grade Dramatic Club presented in Junior Assembly "Red and the Christmas Whoppers." "That Awful Letter," and "Roses of the Rileys" were also short one-act plays presented by the club. These plays were directed by the various students. Learning to enjoy play production, and studying the elements of a good play were stressed in detail to the entire club of thirty-six. This club is opened to all members of the eighth grade who are interested in dramatics. The bi-weekly meetings were not too many for this group. Sponsor was Evelyn Kimmel.

Lightnin'



Shavings

Lightnin'

Lightnin' was the well-known play presented by the Senior Class of 1940, under the direction of Carroll Rupp and the student directors, Betty Carney, Jane King, Gail Cline, and Sally Ray. This story is about Mr. and Mrs. Jones. Having reached no agreement as to whether they should sell their hotel, Mrs. Jones applies for a divorce. After realizing her mistake, she and Bill, her husband, are reunited and their hotel is sold at a large profit. The production was full of hilarious incidents, clever lines, and all that goes to make up an entertaining play.

Shavings

The Senior Dramatic Club, with the assistance of the Junior Dramatic Club, presented the drama entitled, "Shavings". It was directed by Carroll Rupp with the aid of the student directors, Jean McCullough, Helen Uhler, and Katherine Smith. This play is a story of a bachelor woodcarver who finds the world much brighter after he has made the acquaintance of his tenant, Mrs. Armstrong. The plot was entwined with mystery and romance by the clever remarks of the general wood-carver, Shavings, portrayed by George Carroll.

Junior Classical League

Virgil Club

Junior Classical League

The Junior Classical League has the largest roster of any club in the school, having a total membership of 105. "To hand on the torch of classical civilization to the modern world" was the general theme in mind. Small interested groups met and compared present day government, laws, literature, language, and arts with those of the Roman civilization. One general meeting was held in the form of a Roman Dinner. They sponsored the movie, "Last Days of Pompeii". This club is opened to all people who are taking Latin. Sponsor was Helen Hersperger.

Virgil Club

The Virgil Club this year published a newspaper "The Roman Sagitta". The membership of the club secured a background for English literature which could not otherwise have been secured. Getting away from the regular routine of translating and getting acquainted with Roman people and their customs were the things gained from this club. Skits were given and various members gave reports pertaining to all phases of Roman life. Emphasis was placed on the debt owed to classical literature. Club sponsor was Helen Hersperger.

Eleventh and Twelfth Year Political Club

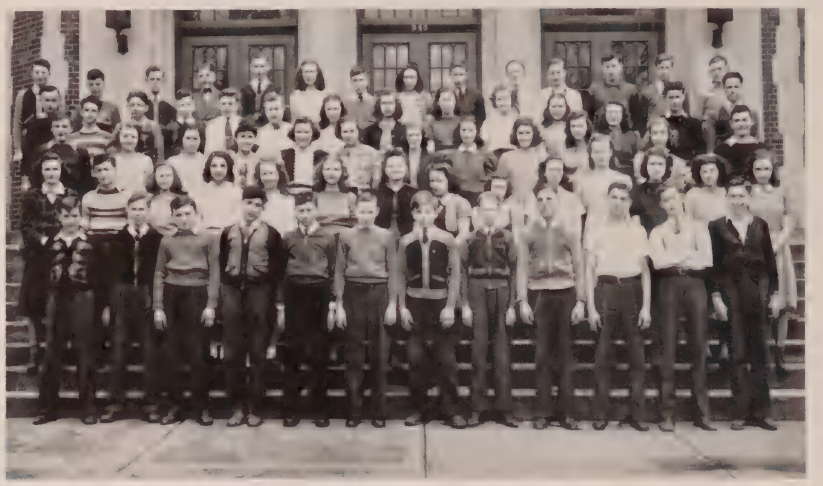
Ninth Year Political Club "A"

Eleventh and Twelfth Year Political Club

Discussing present day situations throughout the world was the general discussion theme carried out through the course of the year. Debates were staged between the different members of the club whereby various issues were made clear as to certain things in the political world. A trip to Torrance State Hospital, and the county jail were taken. Prominent citizens of Indiana came down to the various meetings and gave talks pertaining to the political world. The membership of the club was thirty. The club sponsor was Eugene Pounds.

Ninth Year Political Club A

The ninth grade Political Club was organized to carry out special projects that grew out of the Social Science class. The one-hundred and fifty members visited the jail, the Indiana Dairy, and the Court when in session. Former Chief of Police, Arthur E. Beal, talked on juvenile delinquincy. Several City and County officials talked about their jobs, and other duties. They also visited the Principal's and Superintendent's offices, where was explained to the students the equipment used there. Sponsor was Gladys Moorhead.



Ninth Year Political Club "B"

Ushers Club

Ninth Year Political Club B

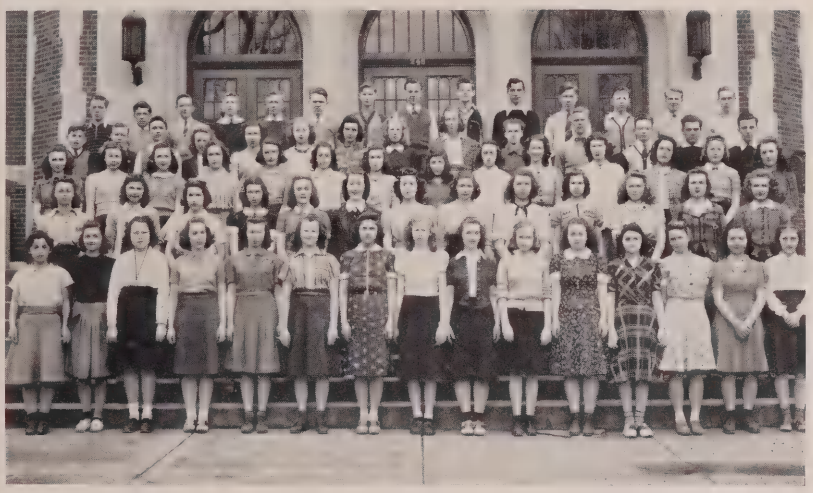
This club, during the course of the year, debated on various subjects; however the most outstanding debate was "Should the Government Own and Control the Railroads?" The purpose of this organization is to acquaint the students with the places of interest in Indiana and also to discuss the major problems of the current political world. The Indiana County Jail, the Gazette, Grieners' Baking Co., and the Sisco Ice Cream Plant were visited. The group of fifty attended several court sessions. Club sponsor was Clair Borland.

Ushers Club

A group of boys and girls, interested in arranging the audiences in the school auditorium during entertainments, formed the Ushers Club. The thirty-five members ushered for: "Hansel and Gretel," "Old King Cole," "Shavings," "Lightnin'," and the various "Movies" shown in the auditorium during the noon hour. They also directed traffic for the Americanism program, and the various Commencement activities. The Club was strictly a service organization.

Viola Simpson was the sponsor.

Senior Orchestra



Senior Choir

Senior Orchestra

Students with talent for instrumental music and who wanted to study orchestral literature composed the Senior Orchestra. They studied an extensive repertoire of instrumental technique, classics and semi-classics, and light music. Also further perfection of instrumental technique, and different types of ensemble music. It had twenty-six members, and was a regularly scheduled class, each student receiving a full credit for successful completion of the course. They made numerous public appearances. The director was Harry Canfield.

Senior Choir

The Senior Choir was composed of students of the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. The only requirement was a pleasant singing voice. This is a class in choral literature, production of choral music, and part singing. On March 31, they sang at the First Presbyterian Church in Kittanning, Pa. They have sung vespers at several of the churches in Indiana. The Choir also sang for the Baccalaureate Service on June 2. The club had seventy members and met during the fifth period on Monday and Wednesday. Harry Canfield was the director.

Twirlers Club

Senior Band

The Senior Band, which meets regularly, serves two purposes. First it affords an opportunity for those who can successfully profit from so doing to become acquainted with various forms of band literature. This way the students develop knowledge and appreciation of music. The band has as a secondary purpose that of a utility organization. It is called upon to play for assemblies, athletics contests, and parades. It represented the Lions Club at its Pittsburgh Convention and had a combined concert with Ebensburg. The director is Harry Canfield.

Twirlers Club

"One, two, three, four," crash! The twenty-five members of Twirlers Club are practising their various twirls. Among the most popular are the vamp, behind-the-back, two-hand, clembdirble, neck, and leg twirles. The main objective of the club was to present a group of fine twirlers for the band. The ones "out front" this year were: Claire Trudeau, Inez Griffith, Betty Nichols, and Betty Carney. Harold Bush, president of the club, entered the state contest at Lewistown, taking fourth place. Sponsor was Harry Canfield.

Girls Glee Club

Junior Mixed Chorus

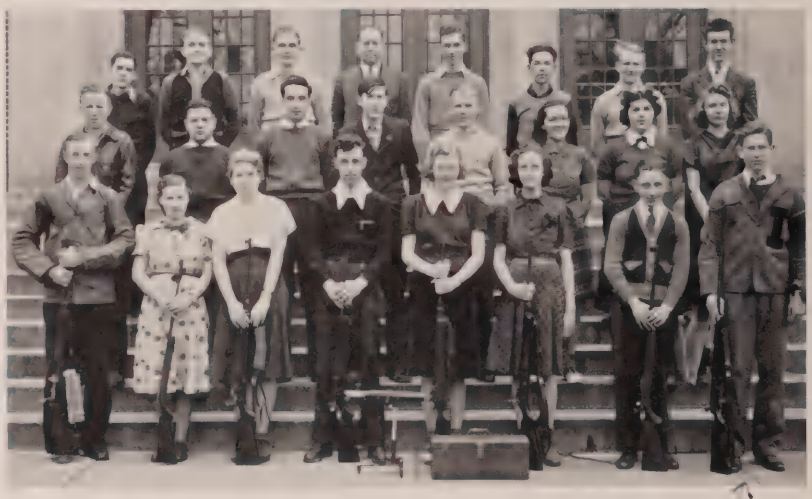
Girls Glee Club

A great deal of musical ability, as well as enjoyment, has come to the girls who have been members of the Girls Glee Club this year. This organization was composed entirely of girls who are musically inclined. They learned a great deal about the art of music through their singing of selections written by the old masters. In their regular meetings, short programs were presented by the students. The twenty-two members attempted to learn to sing A Cappella music, and to develop a deeper appreciation for fine music. Sponsor was Robert Litzinger.

Junior Mixed Chorus

The Junior Mixed Chorus was the largest club in the school this year with a membership of 135. The chorus is a source of musical fun and preparation for the senior organizations. During the year they exchanged an interesting concert with the Training School and appeared in several concerts, among which was High School Night at the Methodist Church. The members also enjoyed a combination skating and caroling party. The assistant directors were students from the college. The sponsor was Robert Litzinger.

Junior Band



Senior Rifle Club

Junior Band

The Junior Band is composed of students who are just starting out in the field of music. The organization met for rehearsals three times each week, and attempted to learn the beginning fundamentals of orchestral work. The purpose was to provide the players of orchestral instruments an opportunity for the enjoyment of ensemble playing. It also provided background for the students who wished to join the Senior Band. They were provided with band literature. The fifty-three members are under the direction of Robert Litzinger.

Senior Rifle Club

Chas. Cochran.

Orchids to all the members of this club, who have received second place in the "B" division of the N.R.A. postal matches. They also participated in six shoulder matches of which they won five. During some of their meetings the necessity for greater safety and better marksmanship were discussed. Safety in regard to the use of firearms was particularly stressed. These thirty-two members placed safety above being a good shot. The second semester was devoted entirely to shoulder matches, and shooting for medals. The sponsor was David Dunmire.

Le Cercle Français

Home Economics Club

Le Cercle Francais

Bonjour, and a jolly hello from all the members of this club, who made their goal to foster a keener appreciation of the contributions of the French, as a nation, to modern civilization. The meetings were held both in activities period and at the homes of the students. At the meetings which were held in the homes of the students, French songs were sung and usually the refreshments were served in a French style; also French clothes, art, music, and literature were discussed. Le Cercle Francais had thirty members. Sponsor was Anna Mary Thomas.

Home Economics Club

The theme of the entire year for this club was "Develop an All-Around Life". Rummage sales, Get-Acquainted Parties, Christmas social work, and a Mother and Daughter Banquet constituted some of the many activities of this organization. All these activities were held in order to earn money to send a representative to the Home Economics Convention in Philadelphia. This club was one of the most active in the school. To develop active and efficient homemakers was the purpose of the Club. The group was sponsored by Alice Clements.

Senior Tri-Hi-Y

Junior Tri-Hi-Y

Senior Tri-Hi-Y

The Tri-Hi-Y Club is newly organized this year. It was organized primarily for the purpose of promoting Christian ideals in the home and school. A lovely induction service was held on March 28, at which they had as their guests a chapter from Blairsville. Devotional exercises, business, and programs formed the procedure of the regular Thursday meetings. A Mother and Daughter Banquet, parties, and sports provided social diversion for the members. Club A had forty members. The group adviser was Catherine McClure.

Junior Tri-Hi-Y Club

The Junior Tri-Hi-Y Club, the junior branch of the Senior Tri-Hi-Y Club, was also started the second semester and is likewise sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Association. Several parties were held for the purpose of learning and appreciating the art of living well together. Many programs were held throughout the year to help create and maintain through the entire school and community high standards of Christian character. This newly organized club seems to have proven of interest to everyone. Club sponsor was Evelyn Kimmel.

Senior Hi-Y Club

Commercial Honor Club

Senior Hi-Y Club

This club is just newly organized and has this year attained a membership of forty-five. This organization meets every first and third Thursday of the month. It also has a recreational or social evening once or twice each month. To maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character was the sole purpose of this club. This group is sponsored through the cooperation of the Y.M.C.A. which has promoted this idea in many schools. The club advisers were Eugene Pounds and Isaac Stright.

Commercial Honor Club

Limited only to the members of the Commercial Department, this club has attained high honors as a club in the commercial field, promoting and fostering work of a high standard throughout the entire department, keeping in close contact with a changing business world, and developing knowledge of and skill in commercial subjects. Skits were given pertaining to office routine and many guests were present at these meetings. Prominent men in the commercial field also talked at the various meetings. Sponsor was Sara Wiley.

Photography Club

Studying projection operation at the Manos theater, learning the operation of the various types of cameras, photo-developing, and printing, have constituted the activities of this club. Interchanging of experiences, particularly with regard to the use of light meters, timing techniques, and camera values have proved of great interest to the various nineteen members. Going from place to place snapping pictures of this thing and that appeared to be the delight of these amateur photographers. The club was sponsored by George Hill.

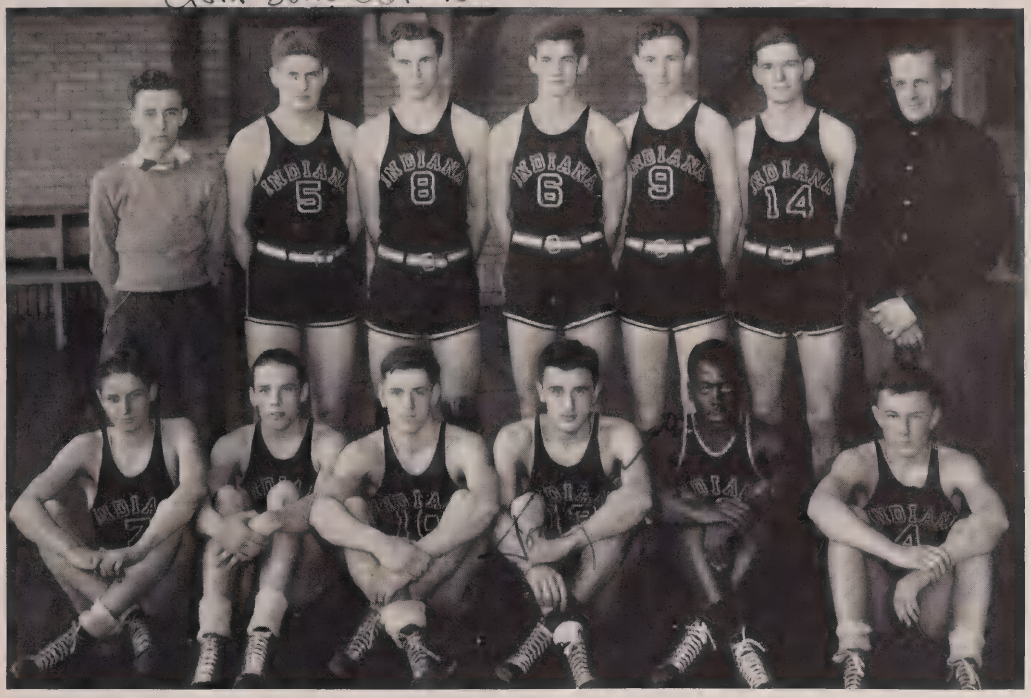
THRU CONTEST

WE GAIN VICTORIES

FOOTBALL . . . .

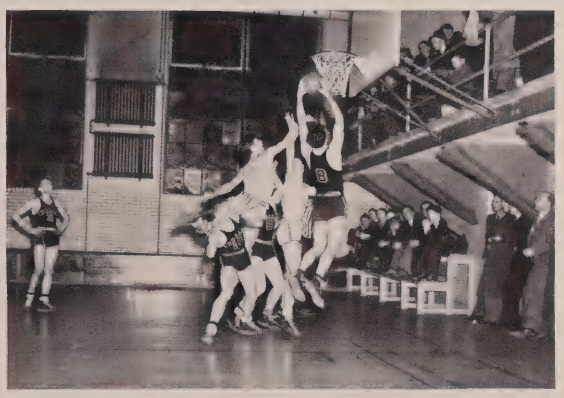
Indiana High School was sorely surprised at the quick turn of events in this year's football season. After last year's undefeated, but once tied football team, this season's team was somewhat of a surprise. The Little Indians received new red shell pants and looked like a million dollars. Playing spasmodically, the little Indians displayed some form of power. They won 1, lost 4, and tied 2 games. From 65 hopefuls reporting at the first call of Coach Joseph Shane and Assistant Coach Russell Leech, the coaches had to build up an entirely new team. All of last year's starting line-up had graduated and though a few candidates had had some experience, they lacked stability at the beginning of the season. The team as a whole was rather light. Weight has a great deal to do with a successful team. With an average of 140 pounds in the backfield and 145 in the line, the Little Indians could have used a few heavy men.

Best of luck "Duke" Calmer
Clair



VARSITY BASKETBALL . . . .

About sixty hopeful basketeers reported for duty on Tuesday, November 14. Coach Russell Leech soon cut the men down to a number that could use the floor for practice. Three of last year's twelve varsity members returned and Coach Leech used those men continuously. The Little Indians proved that they might be a championship ball club if they wanted. They won all games in the newly formed Tri-County League during the first half of the season. Soon afterwards the team hit a slump from which they never emerged. They lost each successive league game and also the County Tournament. The Little Indians developed beautiful offensive playing, but rather slow offensive playing. The only time that they showed really great aggressiveness was in the Leechburg game when Indiana humiliated the Leechburg men with a score of 45-29. Indiana displayed what they could do when they put the power on an opposing team.



The best of luck to a pal in the future "Kid Stile"

JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL . . . .

The Junior Varsity Basketball team of Indiana High School, under the leadership of Coach Joseph Shane, had a fairly successful season this year. Getting off to a bad start, the team lost four games before they were able to get in the win column. With Henry Mitchell, John Mitchell, Turley, and Clawson back from last year, the Jay Vees finished the year with 11 wins and 11 losses. In the twenty-two games played this season, the team scored a total of 467 points. The squad was picked mainly from the lower classes. Several of the Jay Vees saw action in the Indiana County Tournament and made a fine showing. Coach Russel Leech should find little trouble in filling the vacant positions left by varsity graduates. The Jay Vees ended their season as runners-up in the Indiana County Scholastic Basketball League (Northern Section), a position which Indiana has held since the league was formed three years ago.

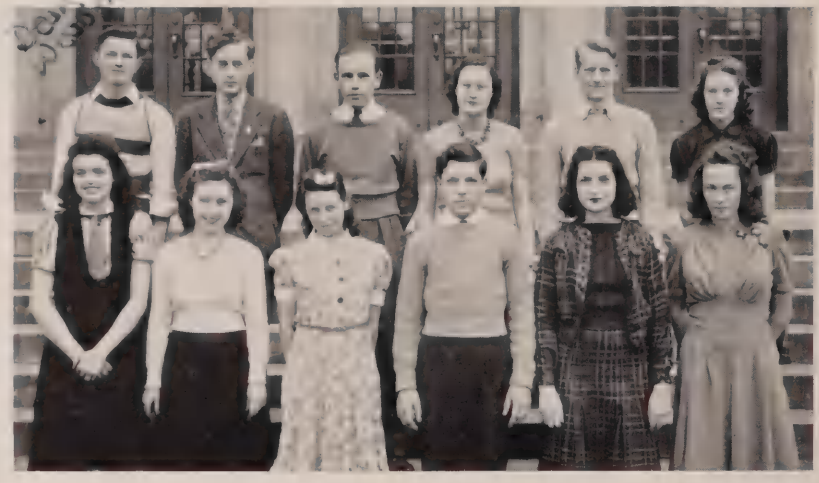
TRACK . . . .

On the day before Spring was officially ushered in, sixty-five young stalwart men reported for duty in Track. Coach Lambert Joseph put the fellows through the necessary calisthenics and proceeded to develop another powerful Little Indian Track team. Several lettermen returned and also many very promising boys. The Little Indians then proceeded to show their power. They journeyed to Punxsutawney where they defeated the "Woodchucks" by 2/3 point. Bracing and steadying, they did well in the Pitt Junior College meet held at Johnstown and took top honors at the Indiana County Track event. Eleven records were broken at the County meet and the Little Indians broke most of them. William Eicher was the top man with 14 points in that meet. With the 440 yard run and 100 yard sprint well taken care of, the rest of the positions were all open for those who wanted to make good, as several did.

Varsity "I" Club



Cheerleaders Club

Cheerleaders Club

Rah! Rah! Rah!—Yeah team!" Once again the cheerleaders are urging the team on to victory. The boys and girls lead the student body in the various school yells and songs, during football and basketball season. They held pep meetings in the auditorium before football games, and participated in several assemblies. They also held several pep rallies in the Manos Theater. The head cheerleader was Gerald Segner. During football season they met three times weekly, during basketball season, once weekly. Sponsor was James Nix.

Varsity "I" Club

The members of this organization are all letter men of the athletic teams. The purposes of this club are to develop sportsmanship and fair play, to boost the athletic department, and to bring about and maintain friendly relationships with their opponents and to show them every possible courtesy while they are guests of Indiana High School. During the course of the year they have sponsored a varsity "I" night which included a dance, a box social, and a cake walk. The members of this club purchased red and black sweaters. Sponsor was Harold Lutz.

Snapshots at random portray life in the school . . .

Throughout the school year many things occur that are impossible to record pictorially. It is possible to snap pictures of this and that about school, but the photographer must have knowledge of the event and have a camera on hand. This year's L'Indien attempts to portray enough of the varied life of the school to give students and others who leaf through this book a clear impression of the multiplicity of activities that occupy student and faculty attention. On these pages are views selected at random to show the everchanging panorama of life in Indiana High . . . Views: left, down—The Roman banquet of Junior Classical League; Junior Red Cross sends exchange packets to foreign students; business students on one of their field trips; tripping the light, fantastic toe in the gym; home room Christmas baskets going out; Room 103 in session; the band entertains at the Willard Home; Circle left—in front of school at noon; stage scene from home economics style show; Top right—Night Christmas decorations above main entrance; IHS press group at Reading convention; inspecting the bulletin board: Bottom right—view of adult evening school banquet; noon dancing in the gym; mother and daughter banquet of Home Economic Club.
